

Dixie Lewis has been a teacher at U-High for many years, teaching psychology and sociology. Last year she was invited by Principal Gary O'Malley to initiate and organize a Learning Center at U-High. This is a place where students can receive extra help, be tutored in needed classes, take missed exams, or merely have a quiet place to study. Dixie and her family have worked hard to provide a restful, relaxing area where students can study in small groups or use a computer to prepare homework.

Carpeting, furniture, plants, and pictures were donated for this room as a direct result of Dixie's persistent efforts.
