

Friend of U-High: Gayln Biddle

Gayln Biddle has selflessly supported and contributed to U-High for well over thirty years. He and his wife, Florence, joined forces with another couple to found the present-day Boosters Club. Throughout the 70s and 80s, Biddle and his family hosted pig roasts at their home to fundraise for the U-High athletic programs. The Biddle's did all the preparation for these events including the cooking and cleaning up.

Biddle's contributions to the athletic programs at UHS are too numerous to list, but highlights include installation of the scoreboard in the gym, acted as timer and door-keeper at basketball games, umpired softball games, worked the "chain gang" for football games, and assisted at wrestling meets. Probably the most impressive attribute is that, even at the last minute, Biddle can always be counted on to fill in at a sporting event.

The Biddle's are proud parents of six children, three of which graduated from UHS, 20 grandchildren, and 15 great-grandchildren.
